

Ben Klay

Vice President, Sales

ARROW ENTERPRISE COMPUTING SOLUTIONS

Ben Klay is Vice President of Sales for the North American Enterprise Computing Solutions segment of Arrow Electronics, Inc. (NYSE:ARW). With more than 17 years of experience, Ben is a consistent, innovative leader in the sales organization, building a track record of growth as a result of successful strategy, solid execution and reliable customer service. He is responsible for leading the commercial sales function and maintaining core business with Arrow's North American partner community and largest supplier relationships.

Ben joined Arrow in 2000, taking on roles of progressive leadership in sales and business unit management. Most recently, he served as Vice President and General Manager of the North American Infrastructure Systems Group. His relentless focus on operational excellence and practical solutions to customer challenges have helped Ben's teams excel in both good and bad economies.

Ben holds a bachelor's degree in marketing from Minnesota State University, Mankato. He and his wife, Erin, live in Parker, Colorado, with their two children.

